

I learned the importance of storyboarding and how much feedback can help me in my creative process. I did not expect for storyboards to be so helpful to bring out new ideas and I have never done a storyboard process before for a product that I'm making. I learned to incorporate more contextual information when storyboarding.

